Current & Potential Level

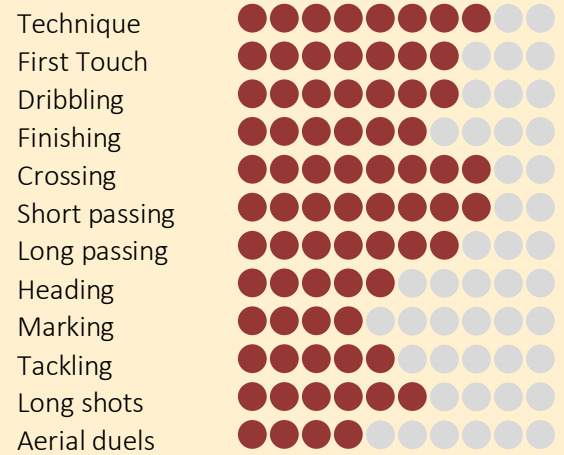

Pablo Aránguiz is a 20-year-old attacking midfielder who currently plays for Union Espanola in his home country, Chile. Aránguiz made an excellent impression on me thus far, showcasing his creativity in the Chilean Primera División and in the Chilean U-21 National Football Team.

I rate Aránguiz' technique highly. Both his ball handling and dribbling skills can be called solid. One of his best qualities is without any doubt his passing technique. He scores high ratings on his passing skills over both short and long distances and his crossing.

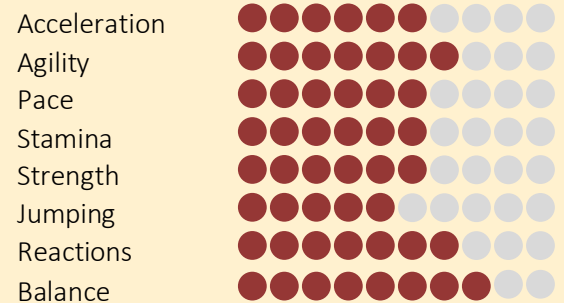

In the upcoming years, Aránguiz will develop his physical attributes to become a stronger and more complete player. If he keeps on progressing like he is doing in 2017, he will be ready for a move to Europe in my opinion. He could be an interesting addition to any ambitious team in the German Bundesliga, Spanish Primera División or Portuguese Liga NOS.
